

Saturday
YOUR HOUSE & HOME AD.
In The World will be repeated free in the Evening World. This insures over 400,000 circulation.
PRICE ONE CENT.

REMEMBER SATURDAY AND SUNDAY HOUSE AND HOME ADS

Sunday
HOUSE AND HOME ADS.
Receive a circulation of 500,000. They are repeated in the Monday Evening World free.
PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION.
EIGHT PAGES.
LEFT THEM TO STARVE.
Then Barred a Relief Wagon Loaded With Food for the Sufferers.
MORE SHAME TO BROOKLYN.

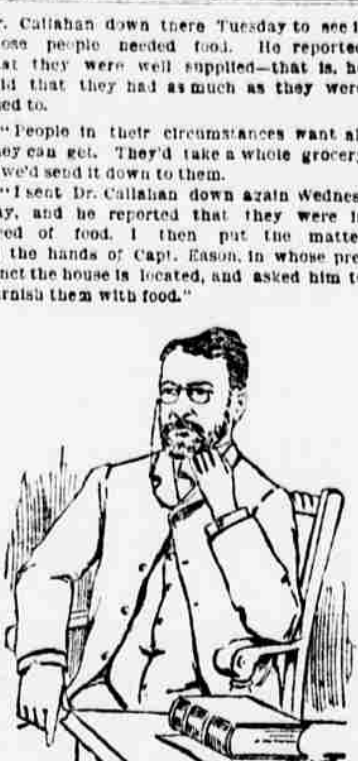

Provisions for Quarantined and Hungry People Can't Be Delivered.
NEGLECTANCE TO BE HIDDEN.
Remarkable Action of Health Officials to Stay Exposure.

The Brooklyn Board of Health, to cover its own almost criminal negligence, this morning did a most extraordinary thing. It refused to allow the starving people quarantined at 165 Prospect street to receive the food which "The Evening World" had sent there to relieve their sufferings.

The story of the ten families, consisting of twenty-four adults and ten children, having been left without food since last Saturday through the negligence of the Brooklyn Board of Health, which had quarantined the big tenement at 165 Prospect street, owing to the discovery of small-pox there, was told exclusively in yesterday's Sporting Extra of "The Evening World."

It was a heart-rending story. The neighbors had heard the children in the quarantined house cry from hunger. The children's parents, not being allowed to leave the house, were unable to relieve the little ones' sufferings. The parents themselves were suffering from hunger.

They had sent out appeals begging in God's name for something to eat. The Board of Health had promised to send the people food, but had neglected to do so. The story was one that would appeal to any sympathetic person.

HEALTH COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.
"But," said the reporter, "isn't the place of the Board of Health to see that the people in quarantined houses are supplied with food?"

"Yes," said Dr. Baker, "but sometimes we put it in the hands of the police."
Dr. Baker then telephoned to Capt. Eason to ascertain why the people were not supplied with food.

The sergeant in charge replied that while he knew that the people were starving he supposed the Board of Health was attending to it.
Dr. Baker was asked if it was not a fact that in many instances where houses had been quarantined, if the people were not left in a starving condition.

He emphatically denied that such a state of affairs had ever existed before since Dr. Griffin's appointment as Health Commissioner.
About a year ago, however, there was an entire block of houses on Atlantic avenue quarantined, and some of the tenants were left without food for several days.

As the reporter left the Health Office Dr. Baker called out:
"Come back this afternoon, and by that time we will have made some arrangements to send food down to these people."

PAINTER BOELSEN HELD.
Accused of Providing Unsafe Scaffold, Folding That Caused a Fatal Accident.
Otto Boelsen, the boss painter, who has a shop at 5 Grand circle, and lives at 964 Eighth avenue, and whose two employees were killed yesterday by the falling of a scaffold that it is claimed, was unsafe, was brought to the Coroner's office this morning to have his bail of $1,000 renewed, pending the inquest. He will probably be held on a charge of manslaughter.

The painters who were killed were Julius Rott, aged forty years, of 165 Avenue A, and Francis Murphy, aged twenty-three, who lived with his parents at 34 West Fifty-ninth street. The scaffold was set up between the buildings at 12 and 14 West Sixty-fifth street, and was at work at the sixth floor, when the scaffold collapsed, killing the two men.

TOUCHING SCENE IN COURT.
Forger Goldschmidt Expected to Be Released from Custody.
He Had Made Restitution, but Was Sentenced for Two Years.

There was an affecting scene in Part I. of General Sessions this forenoon on the occasion of the sentencing of Carl Goldschmidt, convicted of forgery in the second degree. Goldschmidt was in the fur business at 385 Broome street a year ago, and had business relations with Adolph Hochstein, furrier, at 45 Mercer street.

Goldschmidt became pressed for money and tendered a note for $1,000 to Hochstein in payment for a bill of goods amounting to some $400 and received the difference in cash.

The note proved to be drawn by Martin Ziedler, of 754 Broadway, Brooklyn, with whom Goldschmidt was once in partnership, but when the note fell due Goldschmidt couldn't pay it, an investigation revealed that the note was a forgery.

On advice of counsel Goldschmidt fled to Canada. Friends retained Lawyer Hartman to go to Montreal and advise with the fugitive who, when the case was explained to him, volunteered to return at once and take consequences of his act. On his return he was indicted for forgery.

"But," said the reporter, "isn't the place of the Board of Health to see that the people in quarantined houses are supplied with food?"

"Yes," said Dr. Baker, "but sometimes we put it in the hands of the police."
Dr. Baker then telephoned to Capt. Eason to ascertain why the people were not supplied with food.

The sergeant in charge replied that while he knew that the people were starving he supposed the Board of Health was attending to it.
Dr. Baker was asked if it was not a fact that in many instances where houses had been quarantined, if the people were not left in a starving condition.

LEAVES THE GERMAN CLUB.
Mr. Herman Ridder Resigns and Mr. Ottendorfer May Also.

Mr. Herman Ridder, business manager of the Staats-Zeitung, has resigned from the Deutscher Verein, and thereby hangs a tale.

The exclusive German members of the Society, which is better known as the German Club, are extremely averse to having their names or the reports of their doings appear in type in a newspaper.

It seems that the Deutscher Verein gave a dinner to the officers of the German war vessels now in this port.

A reporter for the Staats-Zeitung was sent to the banquet to get a report of the proceedings. He sent in his card, and two members of the Club, Ferdinand Motz and Dr. Behr, came out to say that he would not be admitted.

The reporter stated that he did not care to be admitted. He wanted to be provided for reporters.

The reporter appealed to him for instructions. He interceded with Messrs. Motz and Behr, but in vain. They refused to admit him.

"Well," said Mr. Ridder, "the shall be my agent."
"But," ejaculated Messrs. Motz and Behr in chorus, "you cannot expect any of us to sit at a table with a reporter."

PRICES OF STANDS.
District-Attorney Ridgway Questions Expert Builders.

Cost of Lumber and Labor Brought Out in Pigot's Trial.

A Political Side to the Columbian Celebration Scandal Trial.

Opinion was about equally divided this morning as to the probable result of the trial of James A. Pigot, the plan clerk of the Building Department, who is now defending himself in the Brooklyn court of sessions against an indictment charging him with complicity in preparing a false and fraudulent bill of $11,400 against the city for a grand stand from which the Aldermen and their political friends reviewed the Columbian celebration at the Prospect Park Plaza last October.

Up to a short time before the close of the evidence for the people there was a general feeling that District-Attorney Ridgway and his bright, young assistant, John E. Clarke, had forged a strong chain around the defendant. But the testimony of the people's expert, it is thought, weakened the case to a certain extent.

The action of Geo. Flower in signing the bill allowing the Columbian stands to be erected and Mr. Ridgway's apparent earnestness in prosecuting Pigot have furnished topics for conversation among the spectators at the trial.

It is thought the District Attorney is a candidate to succeed Mayor Hooper, and political classes agree that if the present trial results in a conviction Ridgway would be a hard man to defeat. And the Democratic machine is in no need of such a candidate.

It was nearly 11 o'clock this morning when the trial was resumed. Lawyer Otway then called Allenman McGrath to the witness stand.

CHARGES AGAINST MEE.
Walters' General Organizer Alleged to Have Broken Faith.

Charles Brown, an Alliance waiter, at the San Remo, makes charges against General Organizer Mee, of the Walters' Alliance, who is steward and paymaster at the San Remo.

Brown was the organizer of the successful strike at the Park Avenue Hotel just before the naval parade ceremonies. He said that Mee did not secure for the waiters the $35 per month wages that was promised them, and that he also charged unreasonable sums for eating breakfast. Brown has left from hotel, and said it is likely that others would follow.

Walter McKenna, who spoke for Mee, said it is possible that Mee had charged for breakfast, but that he had no power to pay the men more than $32 a month. There is still some dissatisfaction at the Savoy, and a committee from the "Chimney Corner" will wait on the manager this afternoon to adjust matters.

The report of the strike at the Gerlach last Wednesday evening has been denied by Mr. Gerlach, who said that the report arose from the fact that his head porter, who had asked for several days off, had not returned, and, as Mr. Gerlach supposed, misrepresented the case to several of his waiters, who went out, and every one has returned.

The Cooks' Alliance met yesterday at 30 East Tenth street, and about twenty-two members to the 250 that they already had.

PROTECTED HER AGED FATHER.
Deaf Mute Carrie Starting Out John Victory's Head Open.

Carrie Staring, a deaf mute, of 272 Wayne street, Jersey City, was arrested for the murder of O'Donnell in that city to-day, charged with assault by John Victory, who lives in the same house.

MORE WESTERN BANKS FAIL.
Suspensions at Several Small Towns in Indiana.

A Private Concern Goes Under at Williamsburg, Ohio.

PORTLAND, Ind., May 12.—About 1 o'clock this morning a courier from Dunkirk arrived here, and announced the failure of the Dunkirk Bank, which is owned and controlled by Dwiglins, Starbuck & Co., of Chicago.

Attachments were at once filed, and a deputy-sheriff left immediately to levy on all the available property.

The bank has gone under for at least $75,000, and the amount may reach $100,000.

The firm controlling this bank owns a number of others, and these are reported gone to the wall. The Geneva Bank, one of their enterprises, has also failed.

CINCINNATI, O., May 12.—The private banking firm of Dwiglins, Starbuck & Co., of Williamsburg, O., has failed. The assignment was made by J. W. Atchley, at Batavia, shortly before midnight, and was caused by the failure of the Columbus Bank, of Chicago, of which Mr. Dwiglins was cashier.

The Postmaster at Williamsburg ordered the arrest of Lawrence P. Good, expert accountant, who had started for Cincinnati this morning. Good was taken into custody on his arrival here. The order for arrest charges Good with embezzlement.

LAST EDITION.
EIGHT PAGES.
GIVE UP THE SEARCH.
Prison Officials Think Pallister Got Safely Away.

Don't Expect to Find His Body in the River.

They Laugh at Lawyer's Story of the Escape.

SING SING, N. Y., May 12.—Still shrouded in mystery is the whereabouts of Thomas Pallister, the condemned murderer, who escaped from Sing Sing Prison on the night of April 2, and who, it is believed, murdered his fellow fugitive, Frank W. Rohle, whose body, with a fractured skull and a bullet in the head, was found floating in the Hudson near here Wednesday morning.

Coroner Ackerson and State Detective Jackson, of the prison, this morning abandoned the search for the body which Capt. Fred Jenks, of the steamer Lewis D. Black, and his crew are positive they saw floating off Haverstraw yesterday morning, and which it was surmised might be that of Pallister.

Capt. Jenks this morning told an "Evening World" reporter that he was still confident that it was a man's body he had seen, but in a five-hour search of both sides and the middle of the river, none. Far from Haverstraw, yesterday afternoon, the body of a man was able to find only one body, and that was a black cat.

Coroner Ackerson also devoted most of the afternoon to searching the river. He has been forty-seven years at the Haverstraw dock, and has recovered many bodies. He has resumed the search at daybreak this morning, and will continue anything would at once notify the prison authorities.

State Detective Jackson and the other prison authorities are inclined to think that Capt. Jenks was mistaken, although they do not question the sincerity of his opinion.

Between times Dr. Baker was trying to locate Capt. Eason, of the Second Precinct, who, he claimed, was to blame for the alleged negligence that had left the families without food since Saturday night.

When questioned by "The Evening World" reporter, Dr. Baker began an excited explanation with a view to exonerating the subordinate of the Health Department from all blame. He said:

"I don't know anything about it. I sent Strawberry Olds as dear, but you can buy Old Dominion Cigarettes without paying exorbitant prices. Photograph in each package."

It is impossible for any library
To be complete without
The Third Edition
World Almanac.
Complete your library today.
For sale by all newsdealers. Price, 25c.

John Hurley Brought Back.
He Held Up a Man on a Street Car and Jumped His Bail Bond.

John Hurley, alias George Eichen, alias "Jimmy" Nelson, was brought to this city from Camden, N. J., this morning to answer for holding up a man in a Grand street car on Nov. 6 last.

Hurley and Patty Tagney, his accomplice, were held in $2,000 bail for trial and jumped. Hurley has been in the city for several weeks, but was supposed to have been released last week on his bail. He was arrested on the charge of holding up a man in a Grand street car on Nov. 6 last.

Wants $10,000 For a Kneepan.
Judge O'Connor, sitting in the city court, Brooklyn, this morning heard testimony in the $10,000 damages suit brought against the City of New York by the estate of John J. Kane, who was killed by a falling pane of glass from the top of the City Hall, on Jan. 1, 1902. He came to his death on Jan. 1, 1902.